Eager to start your journey in innovation?
Not sure where to start, or how to balance the growing demands in the road ahead as a clinician-innovator?

Come join us for this virtual panel discussion, as we bring together 3 clinicians who have incorporated some form of innovation with their clinical practice.

If you are an aspiring/junior clinician, medical student or researcher who is interested in a journey involving innovation, come join us!
All in SingHealth/Duke-NUS are welcome.

This event is jointly organised by Duke-NUS' Office of Innovation & Entrepreneurship (OIE) and the Centre for Clinician-Scientist Development's (CCSD) Research Masterclass Webinar series.

Dr Cheong May Anne, Associate Consultant, Haematology, SGH. Dr Cheong has a special interest in the treatment of bleeding and clotting disorders. To complement her clinical work, Dr Cheong is also involved in many healthcare innovation initiatives and started the Singhealth Hackathon series to support ground up projects.
She is also a Singapore Biodesign Innovation Fellow.

Dr Danny Tng, Medical Officer, Infectious Diseases, SGH. Dr Tng concurrently holds a joint adjunct research fellow appointment at Duke-NUS Programme in Emerging Infectious Diseases. He is highly passionate in translational research and is currently working on translational vaccine and diagnostic technologies.

Dr Huren Sivaraj, CEO and Co-Founder, Oncoshot. Oncoshot is a first-in-class real-time aggregated insights sharing marketplace for clinical research stakeholders to plan and manage cancer trials. Dr Huren's understanding of the challenges faced by physicians in searching for suitable clinical trials, combined with his interest in machine learning application, led to the formation of Oncoshot in 2018. He is also a Visiting Consultant in the Division of Medical Oncology at NCCS.
